VOL. LXIII. NO. 35. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1922 ESTABLISHED 1859

BAY BRIDGE WILL BE BUILT BY PRIVATE CAPITAL, IS PLAN

Meeting to be Held in Civic Auditorium to Discuss New Project, Follows Action of San Francisco Board of Supervisors

Following the refusal of the San Francisco supervisors to accept the report of the committee on the Dumbarton bridge and Eastside highway, the following letter was sent to the different Chambers of Commerce of San Mateo, Santa Clara and Alameda counties, by R. H. K. Smith of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce:

You are cordially invited to attend a meeting at the Civic auditorium, Redwood City at 2:30 p. m., Saturday, December 2, 1922. It is advisable that two delegates be appointed from your organization with power to act (if possibe) so that no time will be lost in formulating plans for the successful consumation of the Dumbarton project.

Unless developments occur in the meantime plans will be laid before the meeting to finance the brdge by private capital, thereby overcoming the objection of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors who temporarily (we hope) rejected the Joint Highway District report owing to alleged objections to a public owned bridge at this time.

Pass the good word to your neighbors so that all interested parties may be present at what promises to be a most important meeting for the future development of adjoining territories.

Your organization has fought so hard in the past for the Dumbarton bridge project, we feel that we can count on a good representation from you for the meeting 2nd prox.

Kindly advise the names of your delegates. All the boosters you can to bring along, however, in addition to the delegates will be welcome.

Yours for Dumbarton,

REDWOOD CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
Frank K. Towne, President
R. H. K. Smith, Sec-Mgr.

This meeting should prove to be a momentus one in the history of the Santa Clara valley, and Mr. Smith is expecting a number of prominent business men of this section to be present as well as some representitives of engineering interests. There is no doubt that private capital will be forthcoming to build the bridge, as its cost will be so small as compared to the expense of bridging the bay at Coyote Point, which is planned by some in other parts of this county.

TWO REDWOOD HOMES CHANGE HANDS LAST WEEK

The Hanson estate has sold two more homes through their agents, Lutz & Witte, the highway realtors. The house on Brewster street, occupied by Joseph Blanchard, was purchased last week by Patrick Murphy, and the house at 226 Fuller street, was bought by Mrs. Delia MacPherson. Mr. Murphy will move into his house on the first of the month, and John Machado, of the district attorney's office, will continue to reside in the MacPherson house. Both houses were bought for cash and the new owners will improve their property at once.

The Thanksgiving service this year will be held in the Methodist church, as announced last week. And as usual, it will be on Wednesday evening, the 29th inst., at 7:45. The new pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Peck, will be in charge of the service and will gladly welcome all who can come. The sermon will be preached by the new rector of the Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Maloney, whom all will want to hear. The Scripture lesson will be read by the pastor of the Baptist church, C. A. Parker, and the Conregational pastor, C. H. Stevens, will offer the prayer of thanksgiving. The best of music is promised by a union choir, and it is hoped that all church singers will feel themselves invited to join this choir. The President's Thanksgiving proclamation will be read by Principal Argo of the high school. Let everybody who possibly can do so attend this Community Thanksgiving service, thus showing common gratitude to Almighty God for his blessings of the past year; blessings to the nation and to the community of which we are a part.

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. George Gunther entertained a few of their friends at a dinner party at their home last Wednesday night. After the refreshments were disposed of the guests enjoyed a game of Mah Jong, the newly imported Chinese game. Those who enjoyed the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Thorning, Mr. and Mrs. William Boos. S N. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Gunther and Miss Frances Gunther.

ESTATE OF STEPHENS

Letters of Administration on the Estate of Winnie Faye Stephens, who died recently at Runnymede has been applied for. The estate consists of a small ranch in that section and the only heir is a surviving husband. The ranch is a part of the old Crow place and has become valuable. The title of the property stood in the name of the deceased. Jas. T. O'Keefe is the attorney for petitioner.

SEQUOIA ALUMNI CIRCUS WINS MUCH PRAISE

That the "Circus" held last Saturday night by the Sequoia Alumni Association was a great success was the verdict of all who attended that jolly affair. Stanton Mullen's many imitations and musical numbers evoked hearty applause, especially, his playing of tunes on the blade of an ordinary saw.

Miss Bradley's girls gave a drill in basketball outfits, and Miss Boyle of the High School, put on a humorous act with several of the students. The announcer of this act was Jack Kellogg, the other characters were Robert Hoffman, as Hercules, the strong man, Donald Kirtland, the flexible giant, Ted Conner, Miss 50-50, Frank Towne, the clown and Arnold Torres, the snake charmer.

Stanton Mullen arranged an "animal" act in which George and Elton Rice, Larry Heiner, Clarence Mullen and Richard Chilcott starred a great hit.

When the main performance was over, side shows were opened and dancing began in the center of the floor. Among the side shows, the "museum" under the direction of Cliff Woodhams and Wilbur Doxsee, attracted much attention. In here were exhibited many rare relics of local and historical value. The war trophies of Lucien O'Connell and William Boulware, also attracted a large crowd. In the "zoo" where John Isaac and Claire Locker presided were seen many rare and curious animals. Fortunes were told by Miss Sylvia Underhill at the booth of Helen Heiner, Nyda Lampkin and Marie Pauline O'Connell. Candy was sold by Louise Fitzpatrik and the supply was soon exhausted, due to the fine quality of the wares which were made and donated by the young ladies of the association. At the hot dog booth, Louis Behrens and Mable Paul, Charlie Rockwell and Lauretta Williams dispensed hot dogs, ice cream and lemonade at five cents each and did such a rushing business that the supply ran out before the evening was over.

With good music and a fairly good floor, the dancing was a great attraction to the young folks and a source of many nickels. The association cleared nearly ninety dollars during the evening which will be used for social times during the coming year.

The success of this affair is due in a very large measure to the untireing efforts of the association president, J. W. Locker, who since the project was first suggested has worked unceasingly to make the circus a success.

The officers and members of the association wish to express to all those who helped to make the evening a success, their heartiest thanks.

MUNICIPAL PLAYGROUND

Last Thursday, the 1st inst., Secretary-Manager of the Chamber of Commerce addressed the Woman's Club on the playground subject and was given a splendid reception. After his address Mr. Smith distributed litearture, auto wind shield stickers and buttons to the ladies present. Several questions were asked regarding various features of the plans, all of which were satisfactorily explained. Mss. Merrill asked regarding the rumor that the new high school property could be utilized as a municipal playground. Mr. Smith corrected such an impression by stating that the new high school property is controlled and owned by the high school district which extends from Runnymede in the south to Belmont in the north so could not be utilized in any part as a city park. The municipal playground will be a purely Redwood City community project with especial catering to children under high school age. Small playgrounds for tiny children are provided as well as a wading pond thirty by forty feet.

On being put to a vote it was unanimously carried that the following resolution be given the Chamber of Commerce:

BE IT RESOLVED: That we, the Redwood City Woman's Club, do hereby endorse the movement towards acquiring the property known as the baseball field at the corner of Broadway and Highway, as a municipal playground, and:

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That we commend the action of the Chamber of Commerce in instituting and sponsoring this campaign for the benefit of the children of the Community, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That this Redwood City Woman's Club and its members assist the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce and the citizens in every possible way in carrying the campaign for this most worthy cause to a successful conclusion.

Sequoia High School Notes

Girls' volley ball and hockey have been started and it is expected to make a good showing at both. Equipment is coming for the sports just as quickly as Miss Bradley can get it. The basketball suits have come and the girls are surely proud of them, and the wearers—ahem!

Miss Bradley also has a folk dancing class. All those who saw the demonstration that they put on at the gymnasium will agree that Sequoia has a graceful crowd of girls in her midst.

Last Thursday night the two basket ball teams of Sequoia met the teams of South San Francisco in the old gym. The Sequoia girls were successful in the first game when the 125-pound team defeated their rivals by a score of 15 to 8. The unlimited team was defeated by a score of 8 to 19.

The unlimited team will play their first league game on the 8th of December with Mountain View high. The first league game for the 125-ers will be in Half Moon Bay with that school.

The Block "S" society has been recently re-organized. At the last meeting an election took place with the outcome that Theodore Thompson was chosen as president and Charles Deluchi as secretary. The present strength of this honor society will be greatly fortified in the near future by the members of both the 110 and 120-pound basketball teams, who have just won the P. A. L. championship and are now in line of block letters. The society is growing rapidly and is looking forward to a very successful year.

One of the interesting developments of the school is The Commercial Record, which is being issued by the Commercial Department, having as its purpose the closer tying up of the community, particularly the business men, with the workings of this department. Its first number was a two page mimeographed sheet. Already outsiders have spoken favorably of it.

The Advanced Typewriting class has organized into a Typewriting club. The object of the club is the development of interest in higher typewriting skill. Starting out with great enthusiasm, they have already formed two competitive teams with Letitia Gadberry and Theodore Thompson as captains. Meetings are held every Monday afternoon during the seventh period when the latest topics on typewriting ing the read and discussed and special typing skill developed.

The Girls' Dramatic society, the Sigma Delt Kappa, initiated a large class into the mysteries of the dramatic art at a meeting of that talented organization last Wednesday night. The new members are: Rosemary Ryan, Florence Perry, Margaret Bolt, Deloras Lyons, Gladys Cronk, Margery Sahlberg, Margaret Harrington, Helen Crowther, Lois Leary, Hazel Leslie, Marie Haurat, Letitia Gadberry, and Christine Graves.

This brings the membership of the club up to twenty-four. The girls are planning to give a playlet on Wednesday, entitled, "The Revolt."

The night school is progressing encouragingly and much interest is being taken of the many practical courses offered. A new teacher has been added to the commercial department of the night school. This is Carl C. Cassingham, who it will be rembered was an instructor in in Sequoia four years ago, succeeding L. A. Adams, when the latter was made principal of the South San Francisco high school. Mr. Cassingham, who is now an accountant in the City, will have classes in bookkeeping and accountancy on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Miss Mildred Procter, who teaches millinery and dress making on Monday and Wednesday evenings, has a large class of ladies who wish to improve themselves in those lines. Each lady brings her own work and is helped by the teacher with the things she has difficulties with.

The Sequoia night school offers a splendid opportunity to those who wish to acquire a better education than they have, and deserves all the support we can give it. The classes are open to any one wishing to join and enrollments may be made at any time.

In connection with the night school, mention should be made of the orchestra that has formed and practices at the high school every week. This orchestra has so far enrolled the following: Misses Louise Marks, Irene Bradley, Messrs. Cliff Woodhams, Wilbur Doxsee, Paul Gerrish, F. Schraidt, Edward Conner, B. E. Meyers, and Rev: Father Kennedy. The last meeting was held Tuesday.

TRUSTEES TAKE STEPS FOR PLAY GROUND ELECTION

At the last meeting of the Redwood City board of trustees, an ordinance was introduced by City Attorney Mansfield providing for an election to be held on the nineteenth of December to vote bonds for the municipal playground. This ordinance provides for an election to be held and names the polling places as follows: 1, Chamber of Commerce office; 2, Eikerinkotter's barn; 3, Woman's Club house; 4, Peterson's house.

Several other matters were brought up at the meeting, chief among them being a communication from the Southern Pacific Company in regard to the necessary improvements on Railroad avenue. The company suggested that the sidewalk along Railroad avenue between Jefferson street and the station should be raised and graveled. The company, continued the communication, was willing to make these improvements if it were satisfactory to the board. The clerk was instructed to write to the S. P. and tell that company to procede with the work.

Two requests for dance permits were presented to the board, one for a dance on the sixth of December from H. Wisberg of San Francisco and the other from the Druids for a dance on the twenty-third. Both were granted.

A request from the Chamber of Commerce for fifty dollars as the city's part of the expenses of the float in the Armistice Day parade was also granted, this was half of the expense of the float, the other half being bourne by the Chamber of Commerce.

Three requests for additional lights were granted upon the receipt of favorable reports by Chief of Police Collins. These lights will be located on the corner of Harrison avenue and Clinton street, and Ramona avenue off of Roosevelt, and on the 200 block of Oliver street.

The board felt that the Pacific Telephone and Tlegraph Company should paint their poles along the Highway and on Main street, the clerk was therefore instructed to request that company to do so.

A petition signed by over 200 citizens was presented to the board by Louie Biolsi, in which it was stated that Biolsi had given satisfactory and efficient service as a garbage man and asking that he be retained. This was presented as a counter to some complaints that the board had receved regarding the disposal of garbage. Biolsi promised to install a phone and answer promptly any requests for garbage removal.

Trustee McNulty said that the warning bells on Cedar and Beech streets and the raidroad were a public nuisance and were ringing nearly all the time at night. The board, therefore, decided to ask for a flagman or a tower at these crossings.

A report was received from Building Inspector Drathman on the subject of the City Hall roof. The tin of the roof, said Drathman, was in good condition but the seams needed soldering. The roof was also in need of painting, he said. The board appointed the building inspector to attend to the necessary repairs.

Heretofore, the water for the gymnasium has been from the city meter, according to Superintendent of Streets Dearborn, and as more water is being used and a heating plant being installed that will require still more water and as the high school received the whole benefit from it, it was suggested that a separate meter be installed and the bill sent to the high school. The same being true of the electric meted, the board decided that for this month the high school should be asked to pay the whole water bill and the city pay the electric bill. Separate meters will be installed next month.

The question of a new car for the Police department was discussed and Trustee Ryan was appointed to investigate the meritts of a Dodge car for this use.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FOR REDWOOD CITY LEGION POST

New Staff of Officers Will Preside Over Destinies of Local Post of Great War Veterans For Coming Half Year

Vice-commander, Percy Long.

Sergeant-at-Arms, V. F. Hildebrand.

Some discussion arose over the reported indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce plan of a combined community house on the proposed playground, and it was decided that this post go on record as feeling that the announcement was rather premature as no official action had yet been taken by the post.

After the business of the evening was disposed of the boys enjoyed some good eats and a general good time.

Jos. Paradi, who for the last forty seven years has lived in San Mateo passed away at his home at 80 Ellsworth street last Thursday afternoon.

JOHN MACADO RESIGNS AS ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTY

Deep regret is felt throughout the county at the resignation of assistant district attorney John Machado. Machado's resignation was caused by the decision of Justice William P. Lawlor, which makes the payment of the salary of an assistant district attorney in this county illegal.

The decision holds that the salary of a public official cannot be raised during his term of office. The appointment of a deputy is considered as a raise in salary and thus there was no provision for the deputy's salary under this ruling. The office will be open again on the 8th of January when provision for the assistant district attorney's office will be made.

Mr. Macado has not decided whether he will accept the position at that time or not, or what he will do in the mean time, but he will take care of his clients whether he decides to stay here or not.

District Attorney Swart is at present quarantined due to the presence of scarlet fever in his family. Until Swart can resume his duties the county will be without a district attorney.

EAST SIDE HIGHWAY REPORT

At the last meeting of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors an ordinance approving the report of the committee of the joint highway commission of San Francisco and San Mateo counties, regarding the construction of the East Side Highway and Dumbarton bridge. This ordinance was passed by a vote of four to one, Supervisor Brown, in whose township the Little Coyote Point bridge would be located if built, opposing the measure, on the grounds that the Coyote Point bridge should be built instead.

Supervisor MacBain reported on a matter of fencing the public roads which had been referred to him at a previous meeting. Mac Bain reported that fences had been built across Cedar avenue and Oak avenue by persons by the name of Jordan and Ent. These persons were directed to remove the fences.

A bid from the Pacific Gas & Electric Company for supplying light in the Visitation district at $2.36 was accepted.

County Clerk Elizabeth M. Nash addressed the board in the matter of securing additional necessary help for preparing the road maps in her office. On motion of Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Mac Bain, Mrs. Nash was authorized to employ what help she needed.

Supervisor Hickey reported on the subject of a four cylinder Buick coupe, which had been referred to him. The car was, he said, in good condition, having been driven only thousand miles. He said that the car could be purchased for the usa of the Social Service Commission for about $1,000, thereby effecting a saving of $600 on the price of a new car.

Following discussion in the matter it was ordered, that County Purchasing Agent Werder be instructed to buy a 4-cylinder Buick car for the use of the Social Service Commission, the Buick coupe above referred to be considered in his investigations.

CHURCH DEDICATION DELAYED

The officers of the Congregational church have decided to postpone the dedication services of their new church, because of the fact that the seats for the new edifice will not be here at the guaranteed time. The committee had expected to set apart Dec. 8, 9 and 10 as the dates upon which they would have visiting clergymen and laymen assist in the dedicatory exercises. The new date has not been set but it will be made known within a week.

THE ORIGIN OF CHRISTMAS TREES

At first glance it does not look as though the Christmas tree were a harmful institution among us. On the contrary, it is dear to three fourths of a million families in the country, as one of the joys of Christmas, wherever there are children. Some one's reflection, however, exhibits it in a different light to those who realize the necessity for forest preservation.

Nothing destroys a patch of young forest growth like cutting the trees for Christmas. They are the young trees that are taken before they have borne seed, and in most cases in patches which have been cleared before and are the entire product of natural seeding. When taken out of dense woods, where reseeding is important process, their loss is small enough, but not an irreparable damage. In a few years, more will spring up and the ground is not left bare, but when a Christmas tree hunter strikes an opening where there is a growth of young trees of about even height, he is apt to begin the extermination. Unless he is careful and public spirited he leaves nothing behind, not even seed.

A block full of Christmas trees represents a destroyed grove, and eats up a new one every year. The city demand is already enormous and growing every year. With timber so much in demand and the drain on the forests becoming heavier every year, it is time for public spirited people to forgo the few day's pleasure of the Christmas tree in order that the children, whom they seek to please, may not lack timber in future years.

UNSETTLED PROBLEMS NOW PRESSING

With election far enough past to permit us to forget it, the American people now have need to direct their attention to problems of a constructive nature awaitng solution. First among these is that of establishing an American merchant marine on a permanent basis. There may be some people who believe that the United States should not have a merchant marine, but we believe they are exceedingly few. Three times in the past, we have had a demonstration of the weakness of the nation in that respect. During the war with Spain, we were compelled to employ the ships of other nations to transport our troops and supplies. When we sent our fleet around the world, in the Roosevelt administration, we were compelled to hire ships under foreign flags to serve as colliers. Upon the outbreak of the war in Europe we found ourselves similarly handicapped and were dependent upon foreign shipping to transport a large portion of our troops and supplies.

Fortunately in each instance we were on friendly terms with nations that had the shipping to turn to our use. The seriousness of our predicament in case we were not on friendly terms with maritime nations in such a crisis may readily be imagined.

Set aside from the need of an adequate merchant fleet as an auxiliary in time of war, there is abundant reason for the maintenace of such a fleet in time of peace. As recently pointed out, we have paid foreign shipping a total of $28,000,000,000 in the last hundred years for carrying our ocean commerce. In the past seven years we have paid $8,000,000,000 for the same service. Of course, those figures are abnormal because they cover the high-rate period of the war. But, aside from that from a business standpoint it is highly essential that we have in continuous operation on regular routes ocean transportation lines that will afford American producers the best of opportunities to find markets for the surplus of their products. We must not leave to our rivals the carrying of our goods.

The need of a merchant marine is unquestionable—the means by which it shall be secured is the problem that confronts us.

Interruption of interstate commerce or of traffic in fuel by reason of strikes or lockouts is another problem the gravity of which has recently been emphasized. A strike in the coal mines next April is already threatened. Although there now seems no likelihood of another rail strike in the near future, the seriousness, the interference with liberty and the destruction of property which were deplorable incidents of the recent strike leave no doubt that it is the duty of the state and national governments to devise means by which the right of life, liberty and property shall be made reasonably safe.

The immigration question is still in an unsettled state since we have now only a temporary expedient of limiting immigration to a certain percentage of former immigrants from the various nations. No one upholds this as a permanent immigration policy. As a temporary protective measure, it was probably the best that could be done. The United States can have all the immigrants it wants, and can adopt any selective policy it desires and still receive more than we shall need. Exclusion of the vicious, dependent and ignorant classes are already settled policies. How these and other limitations shall be enforced remains to be determined.

Among other problems for solution are: Consolidation of railroads in regional competing systems, a definite military policy based upon adequate national defense and the limitation of amaments agreements, further reduction of national expenditures in order that taxes may be further reduced.

WHAT ABOUT A MERCHANT MARINE?

Here are a few pertinent facts regarding the merchant marne problem that now confronts the country:

The United State government found itself at the close of the war in possession of a fleet constructed during the war emergency at a cost of $3,000,000,000.

A large portion of that fleet, particularly the wooden ships, was utterly useless for practical merchant shipping purposes because the space required for its own fuel was so great that no profit could be made out of space available for transportation of paying cargo.

Until some other arrangements and a definite plan could be agreed upon the goverment operated some of the ships at a loss which formerly ran into hundreds of millions but which has now been cut down to about 50,000,000 a year, below which the loss cannot be reduced.

The ships must be operated by either the government or private operators or they will deteriorate, and a high cost must be paid for caretaking.

A plan has been devised under which the government would dispose of ships which it is now operating at a loss of $50,000,000 a year and permit them to be operated by private operators to whom the government would pay about $30,000,000 a year, in return for which United States mails would be carried regularly, ocean transportation service would be maintained for the development of American commerce, and the ships would be subject to the call of the government as auxiliaries of the navy in case of war.

Therefore, the country has before it the question whether it shall abandon the ships entirely, or continue to operate them at a loss of $50,000,000,000 a year, or sell them to private owners who will operate them under a plan which will cost the government $30,000,000 a year. The ship subsidy bill is opposed on the ground that it contemplates payments from the government treasury to the operators of private ships. Opponents of the bill ignore the fact that the governmen is now paying $50,000,000 a year in deficits for the operation of ships that do not render as satisfactory a service as would be had under private operation.

The question is now before Congress. It would be well if the people of the country would write to their senators and representatives and indicate which they prefer of the following three policies:

1. Abandonment of an American merchant marine.
2. Government operation at a continuous loss of $50,000,000 per year.
3. Private operation under a subsidy of $30,000,000 per year.

EUROPE REJOICES

APPLES TWO CENTS A BASKET

We were informed recently by the Literary Digest that a New York farmer sent 18 baskets of apples to market, having first paid $1.88 for the baskets in which the fruit was transported. He received from the dealer a check for 36 cents in payment for the apples and baskets. Manifestly, the farmer would have been $1.52 better off in actual cash if he had dumped the apples in the nearest river and would have been many dollars better off if he had not picked the apples at all. Yet, if he had destroyed the fruit, he would have been condemned by the representatives of certain labor organizations who insist that it is the duty of the government to require the payment of a "living wage" to their members. Where does the apple grower get off in the "living wage" deal?

POTATO PRICES

It is announced by the Department of Agriculture that the production of potatoes this year in the United States amounts to 4 bushels per capita, whereas the normal consumption is only three and one half bushels per capita, leaving a surplus of a half a bushel which will destroy the market price for the whole crop. It is the custom of people in cities to buy their potatoes by the peck or even by the quarter peck. They pay a high price to the retailer because they buy in such small quantities. Part of the price goes for service—making the sale, providing a paper bag, and delivering the goods. If people would buy their potatoes by the bushel or barrel and then, because of the lower price, increase their use of the spuds, there would be a gain to both the producer and the consumer. The retailer could deal on a smaller margin if he sold in larger quantities.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

A. H. Sinnock, who has been in the employ of the C. C. Morse Co. at their big ranch near San Juan Bautista since he finished at the University of California over a year ago, is here for a week to assist in harvesting and classifying this year's crop of seeds at the Morse trial gardens.

Judge-elect W. M. Bird of Burlingame dropped in on us one day last week on his trip around the Second township for the purpose of thanking his many friends for their support in the recent campaign. We are pleased to find the new judge just as congenial and pleasing after as before. He's eveidently on of the fellows that you can't spoil, and who never forgets his friends. With one of the meek animal kingdom, in the shape of a lamb, and one of the bird species, as harmless as a dove, filling our judgeships in the Second township we should get along fairly peacasably and well.

W. J. Scott is back from the hills of Madera county where he went to install electric cooking appliances in a big camp for the Sugar Pine Lumper Company.

We are forceably reminded that Uncle Sam is a splendid guardian when we get mail back marked, "Fraudulent, mail to this address returned by order of Postmaster General." We also find that it is extremely hard to get something for nothing, when we bite at the tempting offers of these fraudulent concerns.

Mrs. Fred W. Lippman and her sister, Mrs. A. J. Cartwright were luncheon guests of Mrs. E. F. Bishop of Honolulu at the Palace Hotel last Tuesday.

Under the splendid leadership of Miss Anita Kunze, the primary teachers, assisted by Mrs. J. M. Edling, secretary of the Parent-Teachers Association, the Red Cross drive is rapidly coming to a close. In looking over the list of subscribers, which has been handed in to us, we are some what disappointed to find the names of a good many missing, who had been enthusiastic supporters of this great humanitarian institutition in former drives, and it is to be hoped that they will open up their hearts and purses and pour out their little mite and not become delinquents in this great work for the relief of those who are in affliction.

Mrs. Fred T. Odgers and children went to San Francisco to visit friends and relatives over the week end.

Mrs. Lester A. Conklin and her niece, Miss Carol Peterson, were week end visitors with friends and relatives at Piedmont.

Mrs. Mary E. Quinn has sold her home to M. J. Menkler of the C. C. Morse trial gardens, and has moved to 109 Brewster street, Redwood City, in order to be near her children.

M. J. Snell, who has been with the Williams Brothers Aircraft Corporation here for some time, has moved his family up from Ben Lomond and they are domociled in the Davidson apartments over the San Carlos grocery store.

R. L. Patterson, president and E. B. Haymen, vice-president of the California Homes Association, with offices in the California Commercal building, have contracted for and made the first payment on 1400 acres of the Phelps estate, lying back of San Carlos. Mr. Haymen, with a photographer, was here last Saturday taking pictures to be used with their advertising matter. Mr. Haymen advises that his company will immediately arrange for the laying of gas mains, water and sewerage, and electric light lines to connect this big tract of home sites up with San Carlos. And that they will commence the construction of curbs, side walks and concrete streets just as soon as they can submit plans and receive bids and let the contracts to the lowest bidders. It is understood that this big tract of land sold for a little more than the appraised value, and hence much credit is W. F. Chipman, the executer and trustee of the estate for putting through this fine deal in the interest of the heirs and the annuitants. It is to presumed that the case now in court will be withdrawn, and that there will be no more difficulties between the several partes who are beneficiaries under the will of the late Josephine A. Phelps.

THE LAND OF CONTRASTS

There is no place in Europe more healthful as a winter resort than our own southern border states. There is no place in Europe that offers more thrilling scenic attractions than our own mountain regions. There is no place in the world where an outing can be more enjoyed than in the forest and the lakes of New England. The pleasure seeker—the health seeker— the recreation seeker, can all find suitable places at home to spend their time and money. See America first.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AIDS TANNERS OF STATE

Much work is being done toward the eradication of an insect which through its activities considerably reduces the value of an important commercial product for which it has a predilection.

This destructive insect is known as the hide beetle. The California Department of Agriculture has gathered the information that the damage done to baled skins and hides by this pest amounts to a million dollars annually. It has been found that this insect can be controlled if hides are held in storage and fumigated. Experiments have demonstrated that the fumigating process devised does not injure the hides and skins.

CREAMY COFFEE DROPS

1-2 cupful very strong coffee; 2 cupfuls of light brown sugar 1-8 teaspoonful cream of tartar; a choice of vanilla, cinnamon and clove, or maple flavoring.

Combine all the ingredients, except the flavoring in a medium-sized saucepan; stir over a slow heat until dissolved, then do not stir any further but cook until a soft ball is formed when a little of the mixture is tried in cold water—that is—238 degrees F. by the candy thermometer. Cook until lukewarm, flavor, beat until creamy, tranfer to a small pitcher and drop onto oiled paper in amouuts large enough to form candies of the shape of an ordinary cream pepermint.

If it were not for husbands and wives, there would be no unhappy homes.

COFFEE CAKE

1-2 cup butter; 1-2 cup sugar; 3 eggs, beaten; 3 tablespoons strong coffee; 1 3-4 cups flour; 4 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar together, then add eggs, beat well, also add coffee, and sift in flour and baking powder. Turn into a greased and papered tin and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. When cold cover with boiled frosting.

Crowds do not necessarily signify anything. A man painting a sign will get one and the greatest astronomer of his time probably would fail to attract a crowd unless he was accompanied by a jazz band.

DECEASED ACTOR, FORMERLY NEWSPAPER MAN OF MAYFIELD

Frank Bacon, noted actor whose death occured Sunday in Chicago, once published a newspaper in Mayfield. Copies of the "Mayfield-Palo Alto" issued back in 1890, before the town of Palo Alto was more than a scattering of houses, were brought out of old boxes and trunks recently when news of the actor's death was received, and memories of the former publisher revived.

The "Mayfield-Palo Alto" contained news of the great university which was being built by Senator and Mrs. Stanford, of the incipient town of Palo Alto, and of the older community in which it was issued. Personal friends of the actor, who remember him as the hard-worked publisher of a country paper, are still living in Mayfield, and share the grief of a nation-wide circle of admirers over his death.

You know it wouldn't be so hard to love your neighbor as yourself if he were as well worth loving as you are.

COAST SIDE GARAGES USING GAS FROM SAGE-OLESON WELL

Although the late rain [illegible] drilling in the new Half Moon Bay and Purissima oil fields, work started again this week with [illegible] ergy and preparations for [illegible] ing of three new wells [illegible] made by the Sage & Oleson [illegible] interest. A derrick has been erected over the Oleson [illegible] and the pumps are working night. The well is holding up to all expectations and the gasoline obtained is being refined on the property. Garage men and other consumers of gasoline on the coast side are purchasing the "home brew" as fast as the pumps can pull it from the well.

It is reported that the Berger well near Half Moon Bay sunk to the desired depth that pumping will start there this week. From recent tests made at the well, oil experts are confident that barrels daily will be obtained.

The oil fever is spreading and the San Mateo county community has the greatest confidence is being placed in the virgin fields.

THE FIRST ACT of every person who wants an article or service is to look for the sign of the place where it is for sale. The busiest streets in every city are those that are well lighted. Electric advertisements are not only signs of a busy street—they are the cause.

Habit will bring people back to your place of business after your contact with them is established and they have full confidence in the products you sell or the service you render. Getting them in the first time is the problem. You must make your establishment spot itself on a busy street so that the impression produced is that yours is the only one of its kind on the street.

Electric signs solve the problem of fixing your store and its location in the minds of the public. Their letters stick out by day and shine by night. They can be seen two or three blocks away.

Telephone or write for a P G and E representative to call on you and help you determine the type of sign most suited to your selling needs and location.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

The time came when scull boat hunting in the creeks was gradually fading away, as did the night shooting in the grain fields. More of the boys who were fast growing up, had acquired shot guns of various makes and the little grassed boats were becoming more numerous. The birds were having small pickings in the creeks and marshes, no grain being planted and the more they were disturbed in their struggle to maintain an existence, the further they went in search for food and rest from the numerous scull boats that eventually they realized was to them a mortal enemy.

There were, however, numerous occasions when I secured from 20 to 40 in a day's hunt, but there were many times when a hard day's scull netted me only from 10 to 15. If I desired to make a big killing it was necessary to pick my day, generally, in the middle of the week, and be sure that none of the other scull boat hunters were going out, or if they were that the same section of the marsh was not hunted by each of us. Many times have I started to hunt the Smith-Creek territory, when the boom of a number of "twelves" would apprise me of the fact that early as I was, some ambitious seeker of the web-foot was ahead of me. Then it became necessary to pull in my scull oar, take to rowing, retrace my steps and strike out for the south marsh. It was not always pleasant to have to give up a couple of hours of the early morning's hunt, but those who had beat me to it had the same rights in the marshland as myself, so there was nothing to do but make the best of it.

As time went by and my hunts were not so prolific of results as they had been in the past, I realized the cause of the scarcity of the birds and knew that some other method must be employed if I wished to keep up my average. Scull boat hunting is unquestionably grand exercise for the development of the muscles of the arms and chest, but I have yet to meet the hunter of wild ducks who goes out for the sole purpose of acquiring physical perfection The thought came to me as Will Cooley, son of Mrs. Geraldine E. Frisbie, wrote me a short time ago, that we did not appreciate the ease with which we had formerly obtained the big bags of wild ducks, and that now, however, gradual it might have been, the grandest sport for man or boy, was fast slipping away from us, never more to return.

About this time George Uhl, son of Ferdinand Uhl, one of the old residents of this city and Louis Genochio, brother of the little dark eyed, black, curly haired boy, who had been selling my ducks, acquired a bunch of sprig, teal and widgeon decoys, and from that time on we kept the old patch of weeds on the bay shore south of Redwood creek pretty warm with the black powder. It was at that time really a haven of refuge for the various species of wild water fowl, and it will be I know difficult for the duck-hunting boys of today to understand some of the grand shoots that were pulled off at this place when tide and weather conditions were favorable. The birds, driven from the creeks by the almost daily bombardment, sought the shelter of the open waters of the bay and the long stretches of tulles along the shore. Teal, widgeon and spoonbill were still to be had with occasionally a few stray mallard, and later on when the salt ponds across the bay became numerous, quite a few sprig worked their way over to this side and fell victims to the enticing decoys and a couple of charges of No. 6 shot.

The patch of weeds, as we called it, netted us large bags for some years afterwards, but today, sad to relate, it has about passed into history, and all we can do is to sing its praises of the good old days that have gone. This style of decoy shooting was somewhat new to me. True several good days' shooting had been obtained at canvessback down in the Elbow in company with Lon Cook, but every duck hunter knows that "cans" coming to decoys are the biggest fools of the wild duck family. On several occasions I have been standing up in my boat, and have had a flock of the big red heads swing and alight with the decoys while I was in plain view. When a canvasback or a flock of those grand birds catch sight of the wooden images made to represent them, they have eyes for nothing else, but with the other varieties there is quite a difference. If you don't think so try standing up in your boat when a bunch of little green wings, a flock of widgeon or sprig evince a desire to make the acquaintance of the wooden decoys. You will either get down pretty quick if you get the shot and the chances are you will not spoil your next opportunity by standing up again. But a "can" or a flock of them will do just as I have said. Not always, of course, but pretty often especially, if you do not move. A bluehill is just about as big a clown.

I soon found out that shooting teal, widgeon and spoonbill over decoys was quite different than knocking over the "cans" after they had splashed into the water and it was an agreeable surprise to me because it gave me a good chance to not only test but improve my marksmanship. If there is anything that can make a speedy get-a-way to compare with the movements of a little green wing, when he comes in to you quartering on the wind, I want some one to put me wise. A "spooney" is no slouch either. In fact, any of the varieties I have named can, so to speak, give the canvassback cards and spades and then win out. The big red heads make so much fuss getting out of the water you naturally think they would drop half their feathers, but the little teal slips away with the speed and grace of a dove going to water down the wind. I had reveled in delight when a boy crawling through the tulles on a flock of the broad bills, had been enraptured by the grand shooting by moonlight I had enjoyed in the grain fields and had felt a keen sense of satisfaction as I counted my ducks after a successful scull, but never had I known what it was to enjoy wild duck shooting to its fullest extent until I sat out in the old patch of weeds over a stool of decoys, with a howling southeaster blowing and every duck had a fifty-fifty chance of getting away. When you killed you knew you had done something. That is to me, under such conditions, the zenith of duck hunting sport. One appreciates what he gets and there are no regrets over those that get away for you know a difficult shot has been missed.

When we first invaded the patch of weeds we were not alone long in that favored territory. Lon Cook and George Liddle of the gunsmith firm of Liddle & Keading up on Kearney street in San Francisco, had long hunted that locality. Frank "Pop" Benjamin took a fling at the wild ducks out there occasionally. Chase Littlejohn was at that time an ardent sportman, and rowed out there as early and often as any of us; the late J. W. Lowe, crack wing shot, and Joe Burns spent many a busy day in the tulles south of the creek with good results. Ed Cullen visited that locality when birds became scarce in the creeks and Billy Carnduff would run up the line from Ravenswood once in a while with Billy Casey just to see what was doing; Fred Stalter took a try at the old patch of weeds when the "spooneys" ceased to lead up First ough. Louis Stelter of old Germania Hall saloon fame knew the way out there on the darkest nights and later on came Eddie Gould, Ed Stevens and Charlie McGlynn as well as Tom and Bill Stott and Frank Hansen.

In fact, the patch of weeds needed no better advertising than the large bundles of ducks that were being continually brought in from that locality.

Years will not efface from memory the grand shoots out there participated in by many of the boys who are no more and when father time with his sickle keen has removed from this earth the last of the old guard who rowed out to the time stake, ere day broke, in the starlight or fog, it will be with deep regrets that the duck hunting boys of today will in all human probability never enjoy such sport in this locality.

REDWOOD CITY DEATH TRAP

The Washington grammar school on the Woodside road, opposite the cemetery, is probably as fine a school of its size as any municipality possesses and this is intended as no criticism of the school and its able teachers. But the question we would ask is, how can the school board expect these helpless little children or their parents to believe in their efforts for the safety of these children when every day they are turned from the school directly into the main highway where they are taking the utmost chances of being run down by even careful drivers? On either side of the main highway at this point is ample room for good walks and they should be built at once and provided with strong railings to keep the children from the present desperate chances of the main highway, where these helpless little tots are compelled to travel every day.

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening "gasoline" smell in your clothes

Our equipment to redistill and purify our cleaning fluids alone represents a bigger investment than many cleaners have in their entire plant. That is why our work has no odor.

PESCADERO PEBBLES

Some little time back reference was made in the Times-Gazette to the enormous amount of shipping carried on between Pescadero and outside points. Indications are that this barometer of local prosperity is steadily rising. At present writing the Red Star Express Co. is enlarging its storage and garage space on the avenue. Inquiry at the Red Star and the Coast-side offices elicited the information that something like forty tons of freight is carried in and out of their sheds daily by a splendid fleet of modern trucks.

Work has been begun on an extensive plan to remodel the store properties of the Rease estate in Pescadero on the corner of Main street and San Gregoria avenue. This is another of the long list of important improvements that mark the decided impetus toward a thorough rehabilitation of a large part of Pescadero during the past few months.

Supt. of Schools Roy W. Cloud visited the schools of Pescadero on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Cloud was the forerunner of quite a number of callers at the high school lately, among whom were Mrs. Gregson, Mrs. I. C. Steele and daughter, Miss Muriell Steele, graduate of the Santa Cruz High School, and Mrs. A. F. Bois, whose daughter is attending high school in the south; and Aunt Jennie McCormick, who is again associated with the Bonzagni Pescadero Inn.

Forty acres of additional land on the Week's "Level Lea" ranch are being prepared for artichokes, which will make this stand of artichokes one of the finest in the immediate locality.

The home of A. Enos after considerable remodeling and repainting easily takes its place among the most attractive dwellings in and about Pescadero. A new addition built on to the structure comprises Mrs. Enos' telephone office as well as a nicely arranged store of delicious candies and other thinys good to eat.

MENLO PARK NEWS

All the frontage on Atherton Ave. of the thirty acre tract recently sold by the Pope and Talbot interests at Atherton has been disposed of at fancy prices by the new owners. The tract will be sold out in a short time.

An opportunity will be given every one to secure their Thanksgiving turkey at the card party to take place next Monday evening under the auspices of Menlo Parlor, N. D. G. W. in Native Sons' hall. Turkeys will comprise all the prizes. Come and secure your bird for next Thursday.

Tax Collector Edward Bryant and his charming wife of San Francisco were dinner guests of Mrs. Frank Derry last Sunday evening. The Bryant's only son is studying for the priesthood at St. Patrick's seminary.

The local parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters were entertained by Redwood Parlor N. S. G. W. Thursday evening. Delightful refreshments were served after the routine business of the parlor was completed. All the members returned home with pleasant memories of the occasion.

The numerous friends of Father Glennon, the assistant pastor of the Church of the Nativity for over a year, will regret to learn that he will leave here shortly to become the assistant pastor of St. Theresa's church in San Francisco. He will be succeeded by Father Walsh. Father Glennon during his short stay here made many friends who regret his contemplated departure while his new assignment is a promotion his friends are loath to see him go.

Miss Alta Inman, the beautiful young daughter of Mrs. Robert Inman who came to Menlo Park after buying the J. B. Leonard place on Oak Grove avenue several years ago, died at her mother's home in Los Angeles recently. The remains of Miss Inman were interred at her girlhood home in Portland, Oregon. The young lady graduated from a fashionable private school in New York a short time ago. She lived here with her mother before the family removed to Los Angeles. Mrs. Clodfelter, an aunt of the deceased who accompanied the remains to their last resting place, remained here for a short time on her way back to Los Angeles. Miss Inman is the daughter of the late Robert Inman who was the owner of the Inman Lumber Company of Portland. He left a large estate.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Moore were dinner hosts Saturday evening at their Menlo Park home. They plan to leave soon for Southern California.

J. M. Black, a veteran employee of the custom house service in San Francisco, was a visitor to St. Patrick's seminary on Sunday last. He has two sons studying for the priesthood there.

E. Britton, the popular superintendent of the Bear Gulch Water Company, has gone to Modesto to spend a few days with his mother. While there he will try his luck at duck hunting.

J. Hartley Russell and family of San Francisco were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Doyle. Mr. Russell is a prominent income tax attorney of San Francisco and is a son of the late Stephen Russell, the assistant fire chief of San Francisco, who lost his wife in a fire some years ago.

Miss Pringle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Covington Pringle of Menlo Park, entertained a group of school friends Saturday evening at her home.

Holtt Property Purchased For Children's Pony Ground

Nineteen acres of the old Holtt property not far from the Sacred Heart academy was sold this week to a corporation by Mr. Rey of the firm of Brittain and Rey of San Francisco who have owned the property for many years. A portion of the tract will be transformed into a riding field. A children's riding club has been organized. For some years the children of the wealthy residents of Menlo Park have been giving a circus for the benefit of the Stanford home for convalescent children and this year netted the tidy sum of $10,000 for the good cause. These affairs were given at the Hahn Meadow but larger quarters were required so a company was formed to take over the new tract.

James R. Miller, architect, has designed the clubhouse, stables and outbuildings and the general layout of the grounds. The clubhouse is to be kept simple in the extreme. Plain dressing rooms, lockers and room is all that it will comprise.

On the western side of the property will be located a half-mile track where the paces which have always been a feature of the circus will be held. On account of the number of automobiles on the highway the track when not in use will serve as an exercise ground for the children with ponies. The infield with the same object in view, will be equipped for all sorts of games and exercises on horseback. Low hedges will be planted at different points so that the young riders may learn to jump.

Plans for a swimming pool to be fed by a continuous inflow of pure water are being perfected. No improvement will be undertaken, however until the funds for its completion are on hand.

The field which will easily accommodate between 200 and 300 children at one time, will be a community field. Horses will be provided for the older children and ponies for the tiny tots, which will be kept for hire. Lessons will be given by an experienced instructor.

The completion of a project of ths kind was largely idealistic, and to the untiring efforts of Mrs. A. G. C. Hahn, Mrs. Timothy Hopkins and Charles Dunphy was due the evolution of this project from the Menlo Park Circus.

WOODSIDE CHIRPS

Ed. Swan of Woodside had a birthday on Sunday. Which birthday it was we do not know, but from all reports it was celebrated with some party. Various members of his family from San Francisco and the eastern states were present so that it served for a family re-union as well as a birthday celebration.

PeterKoehorst, who left here a few months ago to "round up" his collateral relatives in Canada and bring them back with him, returned this week. He says that these frosty nights that have driven us to the cozy corners of the fireplace, seem to him very mild after three weeks spent in Alberta.

Mrs. Daniel C. Jackling entertained a number of her friends at her Woodside home on Saturday last. Mr. Jackling has gone on a hunting trip to Mexico.

Frederic Evans has arrived in Woodside looking for a place for his family. Mrs. Evans is a sister of Mrs. P. D. Jarvis, and spent some time at the Jarvis home about a year ago. Her report of our climate and location was so enthusiastic that it was at once decided that this was the place for the family home.

Mrs. C. P. Osgood of Alameda spent several days here visiting Mrs. J. C. Flynn.

Connie Miller, who was so severely injured in a collision with a truck several months ago, is home again, and is again piloting his motorcycle. Here's hoping he avoids such injury-dealing trucks in the future.

Notwithstanding that the cold weather has delayed the sprouting of mushrooms, the hills have been pretty thoroughly scoured by searchers for that delicacy. But the curtailment of the pasture acreage has made the search for mushrooms a different task from what it was a dozen years ago. That is, I mean, for the common or commercial variety. The finer varieties are still to be found in the woods by those who have the skill to distinguish or the hardihood to try them.

We ere gratified at the number of people who came from San Francisco to vote here on election day. We are glad to know that, although they have a home in the City in which to spend their winter months, nevertheless they think of Woodside as their actual and legal home.

Special Thanksgiving services will be held at the Woodside Church on Sunday.

Lawrence D. Allen, who recently purchased the beautiful Armes place near the Folger property, was married at his new home, on Wednesday evening to Miss Marie Packard of San Francisco. Rev. Benjamin St. John of the Woodside church officiated at the ceremony.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIA'N MATURES ANOTHER SERIES OF STOCK

Series No. 75 of the shares of stock of the San Mateo County Building and Loan Association reached their matured value of $200 per share on November 20th, when the proceeds of said shares arising from the monthly dues paid in and compounded interest earned thereon became payable to the share holders in said series. The shareholders are privileged to either withdraw the proceeds in cash or allow same to run on deposit with the Association upon interest bearing certificates of investment, a safe and profitable form of security.

A new series, No. 121, will open on December 1st, offering an opportunity to those desiring to become members of the association and participate in its earnings.

Information regarding investments and loans can be obtained at the office of the Association, No. 90 Broadway, Redwood City. 11-25 2t.

ALL HUMANE SOCIETIES NEED MORE MEMBERS

People who seldom or never see public acts of cruelty on the streets are led to believe that cruelty to children and animals is practically ended. Any humane society anywhere could tell otherwise. It is the business of humane societies to hunt out cases of cruelty of all kinds and to have the guilty persons warned or punished.

The substitution of automobiles for horses on the streets removed one conspicious form of cruelty. But there are still many horses in use. Only those who know statistics know how great is the number of horses and mules now used. The owners of these animals are of all kinds, careful, careless, sensible, ignorant and mean.

The other domestic animals also are entirely in the power of people all kinds of people. City and country homes have dogs, cats, and birds. Farms have fowls, pigs, sheep, etc. Slowly the owners of animals learn that animals give better service when treated well.

The mere existence of a humane society in any locality is much more than an office for investigation and punishment. It is also a deterrent from more than cruelty. The knowledge that there is an office to which to report offenses, an officer to act promptly, and the possibility of witnesses anywhere to an act, all these causes operate continually to prevent cruelty. Truly prevention is better than cure.

Every member of a humane society enjoys the satisfaction that his name counts one in an important work, and his small annual fee helps directly to raise the standard and treatment of people and animals.

The women of St Mary's Guild are working busily for their Christmas sale, to be held Dec. 8, and 9. All manner of useful and pretty articles will be on display, contributed by the Guild and members of the parish. The Girls' Friendly Society will also have a booth and another table will be presided over by the girls of the Sunday School. The second day, the women will sell the delicious home cooked things for which they are noted. Look for the large display add next week.

The world is a pretty tough place to live in, sometimes, but those who are most confident they can improve their situation by getting out of it, never seem to be in any haste to make the change.

HOLD ONTO YOUR 1918 WAR SAVING CERTIFICATES

It is rumored that many unscrupulous efforts are being made to induce holders of 1918 "War" Saving ($5 stamp) Certificates, to part with them for unstable investments for considerably less than these certificates are actually worth, says a bulletin from the savings section of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District. Vigorous effort is accordingly necessary to conserve the public interest.

All owners of filled or partly filled 1918 "War" Savings Certificates which mature on January 1, 1923, will do well to accept not less for them than their face value of $5 per stamp. This certificate is in form of the little ivory colored folder to which the 1918 series of green $5 for redemption.

A man may be a fool all his life and never know it but his wife does.

Often wonder why the man who boasts that he "owes everything" to his wife doesn't pay her and quit talking about it.

The fool who is wise in his own conceit probably has a better time than the one who isn't wise in any way.

The proof of the pudding is generally in the cook.
